The first note is the E : E is the first note of the right hand in the song Für Elise on piano. Did you find the E? Perfect! Now you'll have to play all the notes in your right hand one after the other to reproduce the melody. Press the following notes: E - D# - E - D# - E - B - D - C - A - C - E - A - B - E - C - B - A - B - C - D - E - G - F - E - D - F - E - D - C - E - D - C - B - E - D# - E - D# - E - B - D - C - A - C - E - A - B - E - G# - B - C - E - E - D# - E - D# - E - B - D - C - A - C - E - A - B - E - C - B - A. By playing all the above notes one after the other on the piano, you will easily recognize the melody of Für Elise, performed with the right hand. Repeat this sequence as many times as you can to get to know it well and feel comfortable with it when you start the left hand. Für Elise on piano: the notes of the right hand. Watch this tutorial video showing the notes to play with the right hand. With this video, you will have a visual support to reinforce your piano learning. It is also very useful to know the beats of each note to play as well as the rhythm of Für Elise [Note: you must remain pressed on the key while the note is on it on the virtual piano]; Video tutorial of the notes to play with the right hand for the song Für Elise. We will proceed here in the same way as for the right hand. Let's start by identifying the location of the first note to be played by the left hand on the piano keyboard. The first note is the A : A is the first note of the left hand in the song Für Elise. Once you have found your A, you will have to play all the other notes with your left hand. Press each of the following notes one after the other [Note: when two notes must be played at the same time with the left hand, we have linked them with the "+" symbol]: A - E - A - A - E - A - C - B - A - G# - A - E - A - A - E - A + E - A. This sequence of notes corresponds to the whole song Für Elise played with the left hand on the piano. As for the right hand, try to repeat this sequence of notes in a loop in order to master it. Für Elise on piano: the notes of the left hand. Watch the following video tutorial showing you the notes to play with your left hand on the piano. Respect the beats of each note (keep pressing the key when it is lit) and play at the right tempo: Video tutorial of the left hand notes for the song Für Elise. You can now play independently the notes of the right hand and those of the left hand, bravo! But we still have to learn to play Für Elise with both hands at the same time on the piano. Knowing how to separate your hands at the piano is not innate. It requires practice and time. When you are a beginner, it is one of the most difficult exercises. Our brain is not used to making such precise gestures with the fingers of both hands simultaneously. Before playing Für Elise in its entirety, we will learn some techniques to acquire the dissociation of the hands more quickly. To know how to dissociate your hands more quickly at the piano, there are a number of tricks. For example, you can start by playing the notes of the song you are practicing with your right hand, then the notes with your left hand. By working independently, you will get used to the rhythm of the song and learn faster. This is what we have chosen to do in this tutorial dedicated to learning the notes of Für Elise on the piano. Then you have to play both hands at the same time. Start by choosing small sequences of the song. For example, if the song you are working on is 2 minutes long, choose the first 5 or 10 seconds of the introduction. Play this part over and over with both hands at the same time. Go slowly at first, then gradually increase the pace. Once you feel comfortable with this first sequence, choose the next 5-10 seconds and repeat the same exercise. When you have mastered this second passage, play both in a row. This technique, based on learning in a chunked and looped fashion, allows your brain to gradually assimilate the information and process it better. You will learn faster with this method. Note: At La Touche Musicale, we name this technique the "learning loop". Noticing its effectiveness on piano learning, we decided to integrate a feature into our online piano learning app that allows you to loop any part of the song and learn it in a few hours. Für Elise on the piano: the notes of both hands. This third video tutorial allows you to see all the notes of the song, played with both hands at the same time. Take the time to synchronize the notes of both hands as you play. If the video is too fast, you can pause it to give yourself time to place your fingers on the right keys. Note: on La Touche Musicale app, you don't need to pause the song. The application waits for you until you play the right note. Video tutorial to play the notes of both hands of the song Für Elise on the piano. You can find the score of Für Elise quite easily on the internet. The version that we made you learn in this tutorial was a simplified version. If you want to play on the score, we advise you to also choose a simplified version. We wanted to save you time in your research and your learning of the piano. You will find here the piano sheet music of Für Elise to download for free in PDF.
